Insurrection as a Weapon of War. Insurrection as a Weapon of War.

From the London Army and Navy Gazette.

There is a journal in this metropolis which is the reputed organ of the Confederate States. At all events, the paper has decided Southern proclivities. In the last number it is asserted that civilized nations will think death by powder and ball "is too respectable for men guilty of an attempt to incite an inferior race to insurrection." The adusion arises from a report that Federal officers of a certain negro regiment, which is said to have been taken in Florida, had been sentenced to be shot. This passage is one of many proofs been taken in Florida, had been scheeced to be shot. This passage is one of many proofs that the Americans cannot emprehend the feelings of this country—it may be of any oth r—regarding the war. The uprising of a portion of an enemy's subjects, inferior or superior in race, is a desirable object to effect—it is quite a legitimate operation of war. If Grad British were nonaged in a war with —it is quite a legitimate operation of war.

If Gr at Britain were engaged in a war with France, nothing would be more natural than for our enemy to excite Hindoo, Mussulman or Arab to revolt. No rule of warfare would permit us to treat efficers engaged in that service otherwise than as men conducting a legitimate operation. It is a necessary evil of a war in which servile insurrection may be invested by an invador to increase the of a war in which servile insurrection may be invoked by an invader, to increase the ordinary horrors and calamities of hostile occupation. When, some years ago, Southern statesmen, insolent and aggressive, threatened this country with war, it was remarked over and over again, in British journals, that the dispatch of some of our West Indian regiments to Louisiana or the Carolinas might be sense of the most formulable against the state of the carolina significance. ment's to Louisiana or the Carolinas might be one of the most formidable agencies to which even our vast beliggerent power could resort. Our Southern friends must carry the whole weight of slavery on their shoulders, in peace or in war. Servile insurrection would be a dreadful evil. It would be a repetition of the Indian revolt of 1857. An inferior race would rise against their masters. But it is an again. Indian revoit of 1801. An interior race would arise against their masters. But it is an accident and a contingent of any war in which a State of slave-holders engages. The officers who develop it are as free from any act of vengeance or retaliation as those who fight on the decks of their ships or in the lines of their regiments. RUSSIAN BARBARTIES IN POLAND.—A letter from Wilea says:—"The civil war continues, and it is becoming more and more sanguinary and ferocious. The bands, which at first were composed of from 500 to 800 men, are now not more than 200 at the namest, men, are now not more than 200 at the atmost, and the greater part do not consist of more than 30 or 40 men. They remain in the forests, where they find it difficult to sustain life. The Russians are guided by the peasants, whom they frighten and corrupt, and sants, whom they frighten and corrupt, and searcely allow any quarter to the insurgents. The number of prisoners has become so large that all the prisons are gorged, and it is difficult to excert the prisoners across a country which is in such a state of ferment. Moreover, there are no longer any councils of warheld; all those who are taken with arms in their hands are executed on the spot; and what arms, good heavens!—nusty sabres, seythes, pikes, iron-headed sticks! Revolvers are luxuries possessed only by two or the individuals at most among a band of 50 insurgents. You know that 300 of the principal proprietors have been arrested and burried into the interior of Russia, or shut up in the citadel. Every day new arrests are made. into the interior of Russia, or shut up in the citadel. Every day new artests are made. Every peasant who has any complaint to make against his lord, an employee, or an overseer, every insolvent debtor, is sure to be listened to, and his denunciation is immediately followed by an arrest. In this way it is desired to arouse all hatred, rancour, and vengeance, to light a civil war, and to plunge the country into the most frightful narchy." The Czar of the 22d, says.—A Pole, named Krasuski, has been sentenced to receive 500 blows from a stick before being shot. The order was executed at Warsaw to receive 500 blows from a stick before being shot. The order was executed at Warsaw itself. The unfortunate man passed between 500 soldiers, and received the appointed number of strokes. After this terrible infliction, not being able to stand or to lie down, he supported himself against the wall, being enveloped in his cloak. His mother had obtained permission to see him immediately after this barbarous scene, but he was so much disfigured that she did not recognize him. Taking him for a stranger, she asked him which way she must go to see her son?

Professor Agassiz begins in the last Professor Agassiz begins in the last Allantic a new series of Scientific Articles under the title "Armerica the Old World," in which he maintains that the American Continent has been falsely denominated the New World. "Here was the first dry land lifted out of the waters; here was the first shore that was washed by the ocean that enveloped all the world beside; and while Europe was represented only by islands, rising here and there above the sea, America already stretched an unbroken line of land from Nova Scotia to the Far West."

THE FRENCH IN MEXICO The confirmation and details brought by last steamer of the capture of the Mexican stronghold of Puebla, by the French forces ander General Forey, show how utterly with out foundation must have been the various telegraphic reports from time to time received of Mexican victories, resulting in great losses to the army of intervention. It is true they were at no time credited by any except Mexicans, and such of the Americans a allowed their national feelings to obscure their better judgment. The Crimean war and the Austro-Italian campaign are too recent to allow of one forgetting the fighting qualities of French soldiers, or the generalship of French commanders. It was not to be supposed that they were to meet a more formidable enemy in the Mexicans than they encountered in the Austrians and Russians. All the organization, the strict discipline, ter two governments, are next to impossible ever amount of fighting it may be productive a state of things is sure to engender utterly from effectively opposing a much smaller but better organized force. The success then of the French was to be expected. However not reasonably have expected to hold out ganization-leaving fighting qualities out of regard to the measures taken by this commander one can scarcely help admiring how great are the advantages he has reaped at a struction of property. The capture of the chief obstacle impeding his march to the Capital, Ortega and his forces made prisonhave been done in the most complete manner possible, and lead us to infer with regard to other places. It is impossible that he can do much with an army of 18,000, for such is reported to be his force, in defending a city of the size of Mexico; especially as there is no force of any consequence to co-operate with him outside. The French, by President Juarez announces his intonion of defending it to the last extremity, and when beaten there to follow a like course with regard to other places. It is impossible all accounts, cannot have many less than 32,000 men altogether, the greater portion of which can be spared for the siege; so that the mere obtaining possession of the place cannot be a task of any great difficulty The Mexicans threaten, however, to submerge the city, which, from its situation in the midst of lakes, they may easily do; though it is very doubtful indeed if they proceed to that extremity. If any further struggle is to be maintained after the fall of the capital, it will most likely be at Guanaxuato and Zacateens to the northward. The probabilities however, are against a prolonged struggle Agricultural & Horticultural Society, from the fact that the Mexicans will soon be convinced that it is useless and unprofitable. They will obtain much better terms by negonor Douglas, R. Finlayson, tion whilst they are in a position to fight, and will also avoid the addition of a large war debt to their already great liabilities.

FROM OUR TORONTO CORRESPONDENT TORONTO, May 18th, 1863.

A TREMENDOUS WEDDING.

All the residents of Toronto, and many of the outsiders, have heard of the Widder family, who consider themselves the leaders of our mushroom aristocracy here, and who find a good many fops and flirts to render them obeisance. Well, after a display of great strategie skill on the part of the old lady, a real captain—Captain Balfour, R. A.—was captured and induced to marry the youngest daughter, Miss Blanche Widder. A tremendous fuss was made. The wedding was the talk of the town for weeks before it took place; the Widders themselves seeking notoriety. At length the papers took it up, and the industrious reporters soon discovered that the marringe in all particulars was to resemble that of the Prince of Wales. All sorts of ridiculous stories were told, and much seek to the sone were told, and much seek to the sone well there of commenced to sink, and two of the main beams gave away. that the marriage in all particulars was to regard the plaintiff while in defendant's employ, but the bench was of opinion that these offences had been condoned.

Mr. Pemberton—You do not dispute the hiring at $35 per month, Mr. Bishop?

Mr. Bishop—No, your honor, but then part of our defence is that the money was to be paid out of the first lime.

Mr. Pemberton—L consider that an illegal consideration, which sullifies the agreement. The court then took evidence of the expense incurred by defendant in consequence of the acts of the plaintiff, and gave judgment for $20 $7, with costs.

Treachery—The following plot laid by the Lemaltsas, at the instigation of the notorious Achee-wun, for the destruction of the gunboat Forward and all on board, has just come to light, the facts have been elicited from some of the prisoners who were present.

The event was quite unexpected, but the occasion could not have been better selected, if the object were to see the House in one of its most interesting aspects. Lord Palmerston had occasion to address the Palmerston had occasion to address the House, and, in a speech of a few intuites duration, displayed that quality for which he is perhaps most famous as a debater. In half-as-dozen sentences of the happiest badinage, he turned the position of his enemy, who on this occasion was Lord Robert Montagu. Their Royal Highnesses remained for more than an hour.
